THE TAMARACK STAFF

1968 marks Mr. René Clark's 25th year at Millbrook. On this occasion, the Senior Class wishes to dedicate the 1968 Tamarack to Mr. Clark as a small measure of thanks for his years of devotion to and personal concern for each boy at Millbrook. Under Mr. Clark, the French Department has developed a unique program, due largely to Mr. Clark's continued supervision and direction; Millbrook also has seen the growth of exceptional photographic activity. We hope that this dedication, although inadequate to express our thanks, will serve as an acknowledgement of our respect and our good wishes to a distinguished man on the completion of 25 years of outstanding service to Millbrook boys.

BY WORD

Well, fellers, I've never heard of the place either, but we've got to start broadening our horizons
Polished shoes are a polished mind
This bugs me; I'm burnt
It'll be ready in three weeks.
You've got it bass-ackwards
Take my daughter for instance
Open the windows, let's get the elephant smell out of here

"Still round the corner there may wait

— J. R. R. Tolkien
Lord of the Rings

Terry has certainly made his mark on the life of Millbrook during the last four years. As the Vice-President of the Student Council, or rather Vice-President of the school, he will be remembered by his wish to have "Arthur V. Bennett, III — Acting President" stationary printed up when Mark fell victim to the plague. Although Terry is of Austro-Germanic nobility, he condescended to dabble in the politics of commoners. He even did his best to keep the Wednesday Night Cook Squad going by setting a committee longevity record of four long years; as head of the Food Committee, succeeded in keeping the food at its overwhelmingly high level of quality.

As Terry passes on to bigger and better things, we will all miss his smiling, pear-shaped face. Terry could always be counted on to brighten up any toy or situation. Just one word of warning — don't accept helpful hints from the Baron Field Marshall during a game of Blitzkrieg — this will lead him to sure victory.

Whether exciting the theatrical pages of Variety, delighting Chapel goers of a New York Prep School or strolling down Broadway with a glinting smile and rosy cheeks, Ted Chapin is always bewitching an audience. Ted arrived at Millbrook School much the same as he is now: vivacious, audacious, and in Millbrook School terms definitely not "cool". Ted is what one might term "unique" in that he has been forced to be the ringmaster in a triple this year.

In school life Ted has performed in such unforgettable roles . . . Bank Co-President, Organist, Play Director, and Dining Hall Manager (cough-cough). I might draw attention to the superb role he has played continuously as a prefect always at the scene of the crime. His musical talent is indeed unusual, who else can boast proficiency on the glockenspiel, harpsichord, bells and castanets? This year Ted has boldly faced the problems of term papers and reports with quite unusual themes of the theatre, a practice, he has carried out for the last four years. I believe the school as well as Ted's friends will greatly miss the warm smile and jovial manner which typifies Ted.

War, although never excusable, could, in former times be

Happay i Yam, all on a new day, happy i am, people and flowers are one and the same, all in a chain, at the beginning of a new world, someone's singing and i think it's me, youth is winging, and longs to be free, and so you see love is only feeling feeling for you, love is only feeling feeling for me, into you life there will come friends maybe a wife who to you sends love with no pain part of a chain at the giving birth of a new child, someone's painting and i think it's me, someone's living and oh gosh it's me and so you see, love is only feeling feeling for you, love is only feeling feeling for me

Donovan

. . . whenever I come to the fountain to drink
I find the living water itself thirsty,
And it drinks me while I drink it
Love gives me naught but itself and takes naught but from itself
Love possesses not nor would it be possessed,
For love is sufficient unto love . . .
And think not you can direct the course of love, for love, if it finds you worthy, directs your course . . .
Love has no other desire but to fulfill itself

Kahlil Gibran (from "The Prophet")

You have been told also that life is darkness, and in your weariness you echo what was said by the weary. And I say that life is indeed darkness save when there is urge
And all urge is blind save when there is knowledge,
And all knowledge is vain save when there is work,
And all work is empty save when there is love,
And when you work with love you bind yourself to yourself, and to one another, and to God

One day during the spring after Hans Olsa had died, a troop of young boys were ranging the prairies, in search of some yearling cattle that had gone astray. They came upon the haystack, and stood transfixed. On the west side of the stack sat a man, with his back to the moulding hay. This was in the middle of a warm day in May, yet the man had two pair of skis along with him; one pair lay beside him on the ground, the other was tied to his back. He had a heavy stocking cap pulled well down over his forehead, and large mittens on his hands; in each hand he clutched a staff . . . To the boys, it looked as though the man were sitting there resting while he waited for better skung

His face was ashen and drawn. His eyes were set toward the west

Energy to GOOD use is best put!

I must grow strong not sicken; eat, digest my food,
That it may build me, and in so doing good
To blood and bone, broaden the sensitive
Fastidious pale perception: we contrive
Lean comfort from the starving, and if I would
The weak help, I must be fed in wit and purpose
Pour away despair and eat happiness like bread.

To everything there is a season.
and a time to every purpose under Heaven
A time to be born and a time to die;
A time to kill and a time to heal;

A time to weep and a time to laugh;
A time to embrace and a time to refrain from embracing;
A time of war and a time of peace;
A time to hate and a time to love ...

Michael is, in the words of his friends, a "true nut". How many other people do you know who would like to take a movie of themselves running through a forest while whistling bird calls? No one can say that Michael was not enthusiastic — when he became interested in movies, for instance, within a month he had purchased a 16MM projector, had funds started for the purchase of "Born Free" and "Gone with the Wind", had purchased 100 prints of movie, and had a reel of pieces of film that had "broken in" the Saturday Night Movies.

Michael's contributions to Millbrook are numerous. As the captain of the Track Team, he proved just how fast a toy soldier could run. He was given the name "TWFFT" for he could literally call the birds out of the trees. The results of his excellent projection abilities are shown at left. He played the Chapel organ, but his best keyboard skills were revealed in his frequent pre-dinner duets with fellow pianist Chapin. Regardless of all personal feelings about "Whit", Millbrook will not be the same without him.

Although Steve claims to be a native of Great Barrington Idaho, or is it Illinois? (that's right, the Corn Belt), we are most sure that there is no such animal!

Ever since he came to Millbrook, Steve "Dunham" has been quiet, but he, nevertheless, has been an active participant in school activities. Besides being a vicious South Dorm prefect and library head he was a member of the octet and president of the Glee Club.

Although he spent more time than most hitting the books he could often be found around campus trying to analyze boys' handwriting, campaigning for Chicago radio stations like WLS and WCFI, or in the tink fighting away on the third hockey team for old Mi 'brook.

Even though he wants to go to Kalamazoo (College) [What?] he is still a nice guy, and if you ever want to find him, you can do one of two things: either wait in the bath room where he daily spends at least one half hour polishing his nose and talking to the night watchman, or just look for a person with a bushy "unibrow" and a smile as big as the crescent moon.

Every boy that goes to Mi 'brook eventually learns that sleep is priceless. The sheets and blankets on our beds make up one big security blanket under which we are safe from the merciless onslaught of books. When the rouser rings we cringe and curl up in the lingering warmth . . . The person in the mirror looks like a refugee from Hell — his hair unkept, his face pale, his body numb and unfeeling. Life seems impossible.

To be alive is to be fortunate, Roderick. Of course, in the morning when you first awake, it does not always seem so gay when you take your hair out of the drawer, and your teeth out of the glass, you are apt to feel a little out of place in this world. But when you are dressed for your monthly coffee — and have a good look at yourself — not in the glass, naturally — it lies — but in the side of the brass gong that once belonged to Admiral Courbetthen, Roderick, then you're armed, you're strong, you're ready, you can begin again."

IN MEMORY

- 193 -

Man's mind will never cease to develop and increase
We will depart from Millbrook School as the Class of 1968, taking along with us many memories. Millbrook is the place each one of us has a grasp at responsibility, knowledge, leadership, and understanding. We will all remember Millbrook in our way. We are bound for a new phase in our lives, utilizing the basic tools we have gathered here. We leave as a group knowing that we each have a different world to conquer. Hopefully we will meet again.

COMMUNITY SERVICE

This side of the truth,
You may not see, my son,
King of your blue eyes
In the blinding country of youth,
That all is undone.

Under the unminding skies,
Of innocence and guilt
Before you move to make
One gesture of the heart or head,

Is gathered and split
Into the winding dark
Like the dust of the dead.

Good and bad, two ways
Of moving about your death
By the grinding sea,
King of your heart in the blind days.
Blow away like breath.

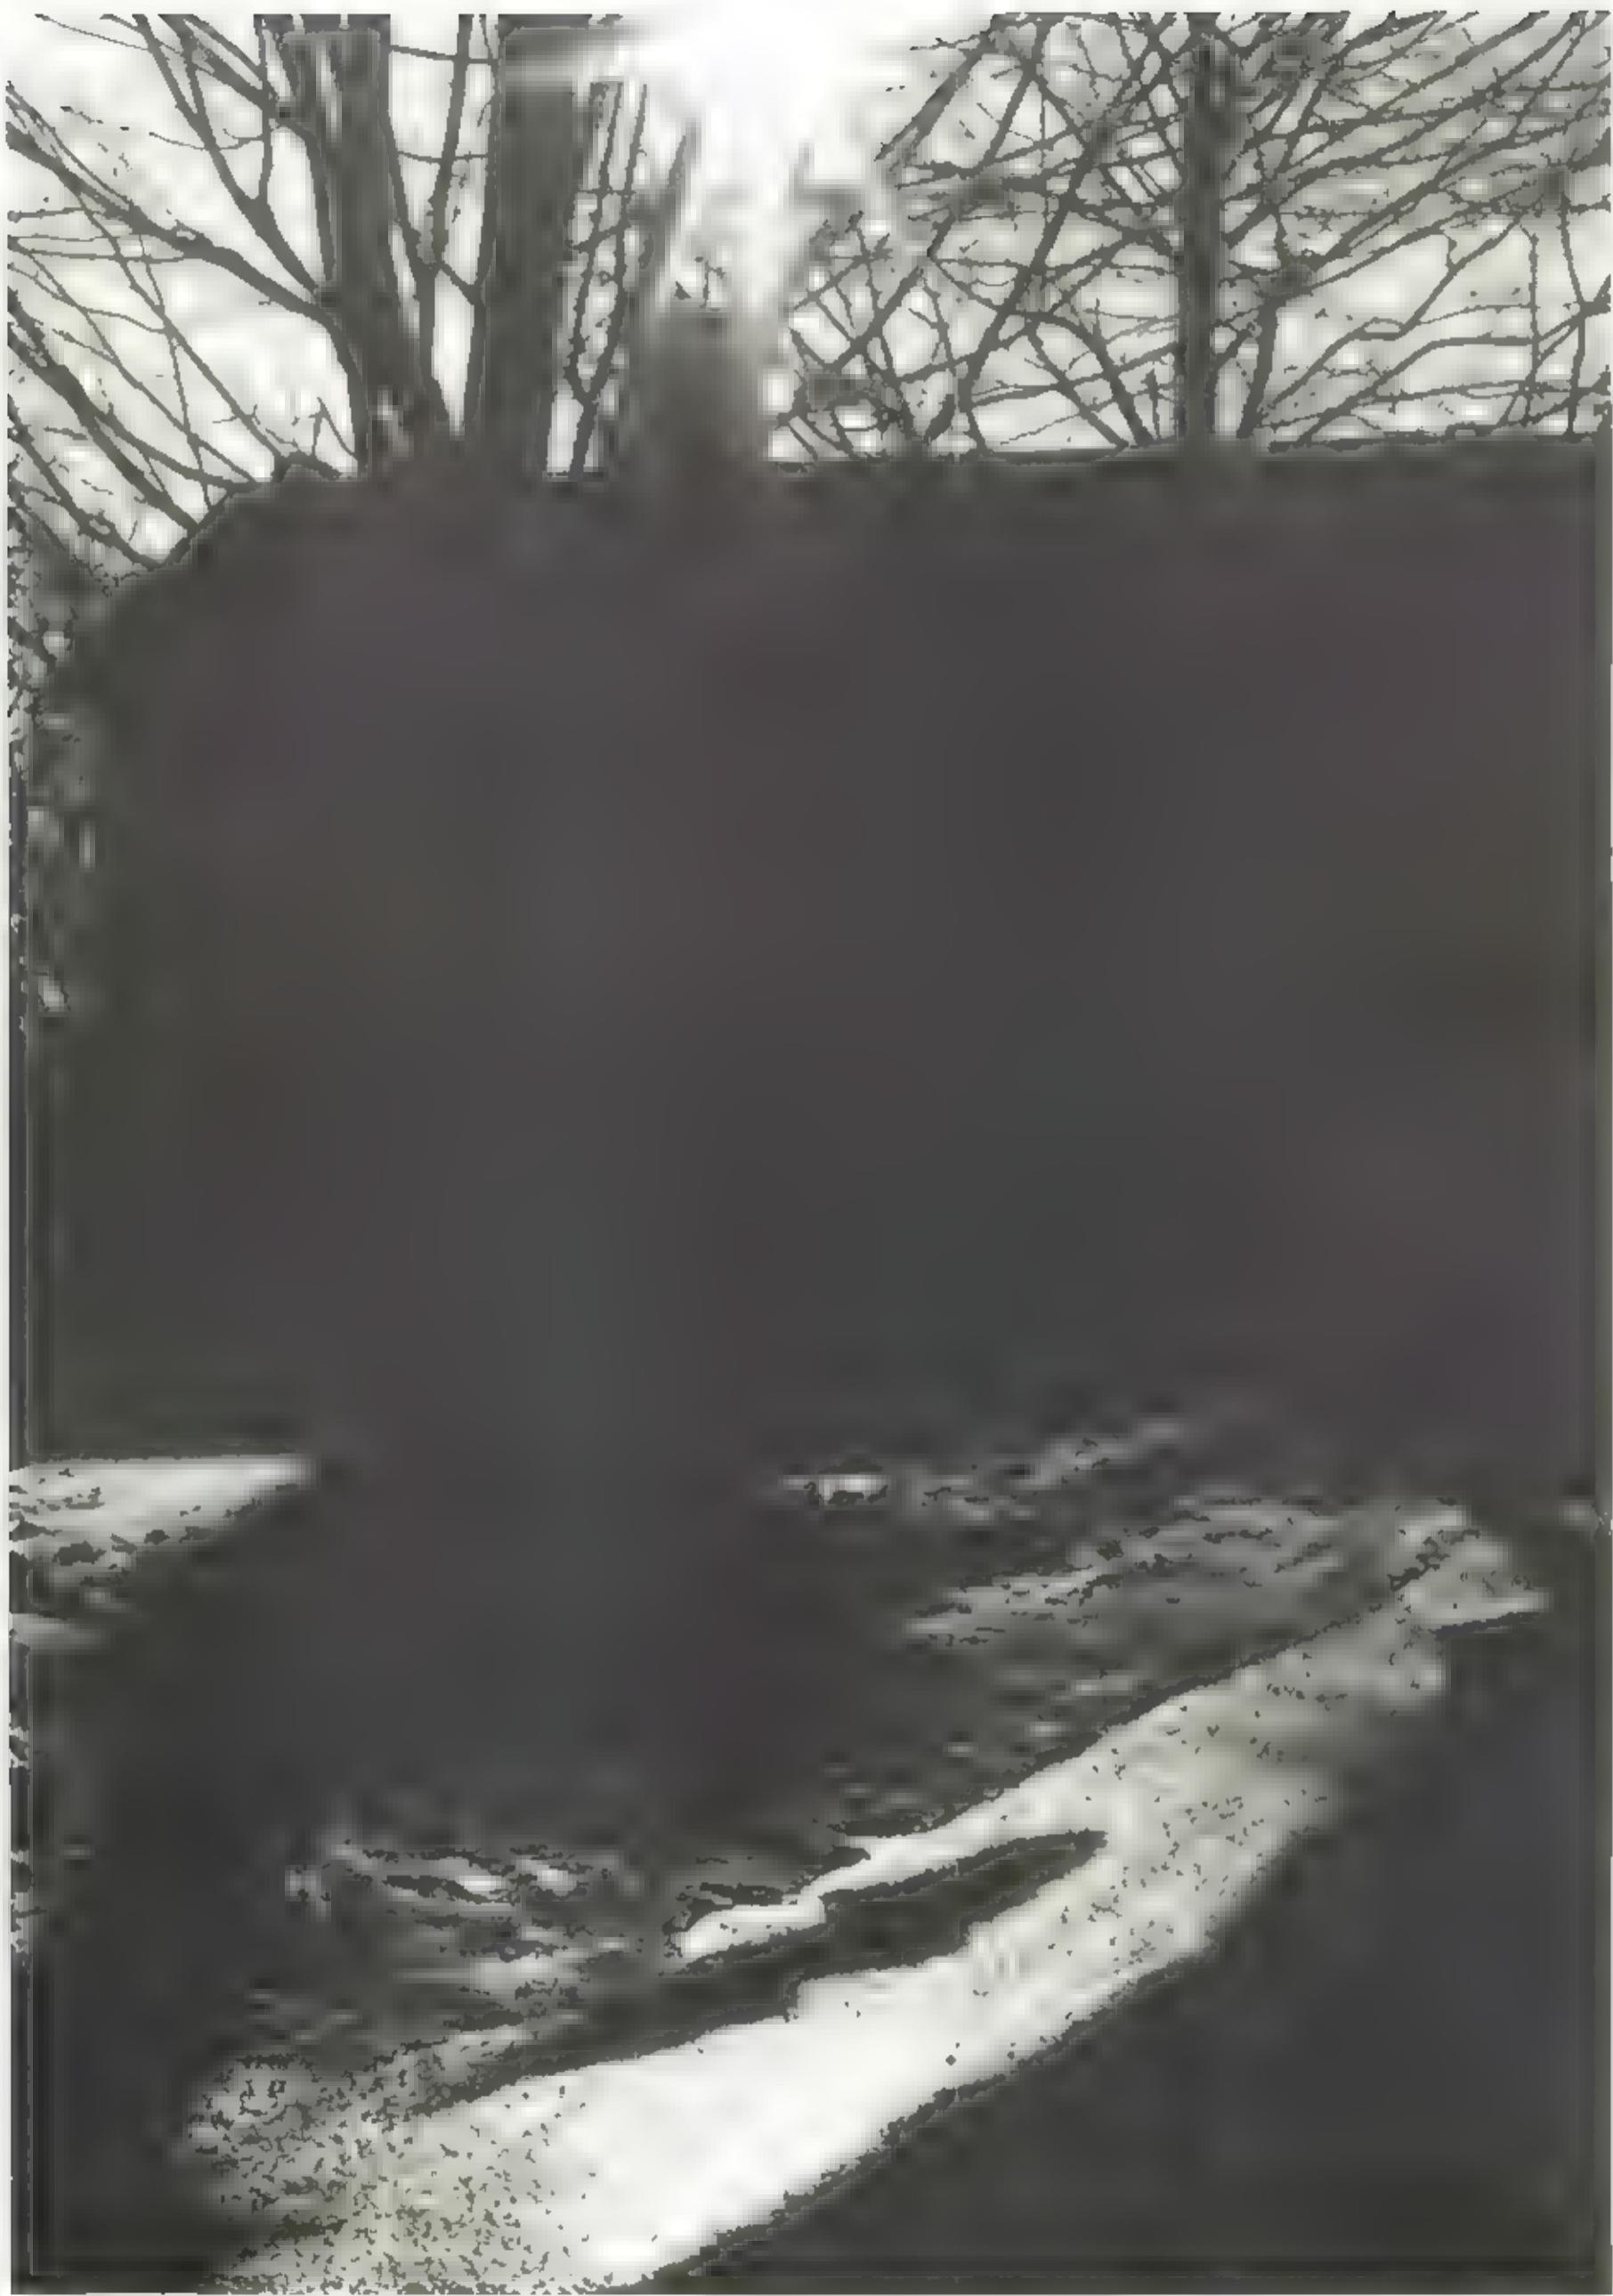

Go crying through you and me
And the souls of all men
Into the innocent
Dark, and the guilty dark, and good
Death, and bad death, and then
In the last element
Fly like the stars' blood,

Like the sun's tears,
Like the moon's seed, rubbish
And fire, the flying rant
Of the sky, king of your six years.
And the wicked wish,
Down the beginning of plants
And animals and birds,
Water and light, the earth and sky,
Is cast before you move,
And all your deeds and words,
Each truth, each lie,
Die in unjudging love.

—Dylan Thomas

THE UNDERGROUND GENERATION

The Underground Generation, the present Millbrook School band, has been in existence for the past two years. It has steadily progressed in competence, cohesiveness, and showmanship. The U.G. comprises seven Millbrook boys: singers Bill Santoro, Robin Baldwin, and Mark Smith; lead guitarist Leon Barzin, bass guitarist Tom Turek, rhythm guitarist Cutty Chambers, and drummer Jon Earl. Aside from their commitments at and for Millbrook (for which they do not receive monetary compensation), they have played extensively outside of school; their engagements have carried them to such diverse places as Pound Ridge, N.Y., Hastings on Hudson, Franconia, N.H., and Middleburg, Va.

Outside Millbrook, the personality of the U.G. changes radically. From sweet, mannerly, clean-cut Millbrook boys there swiftly emerges a wild, savage, bohemian tribe of graffiti-scribbling vandals. Once, on the way back from a job, they were labeled in a Delaware Howard Johnson's as a bunch of "damn hippies."

Since the theft of their equipment, (which Mr. Buell kindly replaced), The Underground Generation has been situated in the basement of the Chapel, whence have originated the sounds which have surprised many a late-afternoon worshipper — loud, raunchy, but definitely not sacrilegious. This year, much of the U.G. leaves for bigger and better things; hopefully, the name will live on in Millbrook's heart forever!

This year The Mill was published twice, once before Christmas vacation and once during Spring Dance weekend. The Mill also reached a turning point in its history. Never before has a Mill had so much photography, art work, and creative writing in one issue as this year's Spring Dance Weekend issue. The Mill achieved this goal by skimping on funds for the first issue and using the remaining funds for the final issue. The Mill staff has tried and succeeded in giving their publication a new life. This was shown by the great response from both student and faculty about the all new look of the spring edition.

The Mill relies completely on the student body for its material, although in the future it is hoped that there might be faculty contributions. The Mill staff is a group of boys who are interested in writing and are concerned about getting other people interested. Among the staff, there is always the question milling around as to whether The Mill will not be published due to a lack of material; the problem is inevitably solved when the dead-line is announced. At this time there is always a fantastic influx of material from which an outstanding Mill can be formed. Having finally seen great glory, The Mill is now ready to emerge as one of Millbrook's great publications.

Brian D. Sisselman
Editor-in-Chief

This year the Silo, Millbrook's newspaper, was edited by Dorian Dale. At times he received questionable aid from Assistant Editors — Mark Smith — Jim Weidlein, and Scott Kenworthy handled the photography with a great deal of proficiency. On the first issue, Mr. Abbott was the advisor, then Mr. Martin took over and soon Mr. Buell, Mr. Clark, and Mr. Bower jumped on the bandwagon.

Several innovations were introduced to the paper; a creative lay-out added artistic spice, the publication of original, heretofore not printed due to lack of imagination, articles that increased its literary worth, and fiery editorials usually rejected, that were ensued by heated controversy. Smith wrote his volume, "Dimension," on the critical aspects of school life. Dale, the editor's answer to the muckrakers, dissected issues that disturbed him. Weidlein contributed idealistic editorials. Occasionally, faculty members contributed their opinions mostly from the position of the "Concerned" (usually spiteful) critic.

Unfortunately, there was less help from the lower members, particularly fifth formers, than was hoped for by the Editorial Board. This neglect was the cause of the mediocrity of some of their articles, but many were well brushed up by Mr. Martin before printing.

END THE WAR

... In view of the power, wealth, and influence at present attained by the United States, the act of renouncing, in its turn, a distant expedition once it appears unprofitable and unjustifiable and of substituting for it an international arrangement organizing the peace and development of an important region of the world, will not, in the final analysis, involve anything that could injure its pride, interfere with its ideals and jeopardize its interests.

On the contrary, in taking a path so true to the Western genius, what an audience would the United States recapture from one end of the world to the other, and what an opportunity would peace find on the scene everywhere else.

— Charles de Gaulle

If we can bring ourselves so to act, we will have overcome the dangers of the arrogance of power.

— J. William Fulbright

We have just enough religion to make us hate, but not enough to make us love one another.

MILLBROOK MANOR

She's got everything she needs
She's an arist, She don't look back
She can take the dark out of the night-time
And paint the day-time black

You will start out standing
Proud to steal her anything she sees
But you will wind up peeking through her keyhole
Down upon your knees.

She wears an Egyptian ring
That sparkles before she speaks
She is a hypnotist collector
You are a walking antique

She never stumbles
She's got no place to fall
She's nobody child
The law can't touch her at all

Say you catch yourself dreaming about something that is very close to what you relationally imagine. Then one day that dream, that you've been trying to get rid of, happens (the reason you want to get rid of it is because it repulses you and not because you don't want to dream) Well there you were kookie-looking, professing (to me and my superiority complex childish thought on creative grandeur) THEN we did those almost repulsive, crazy things in that almost phoney but neat atmosphere. And sometimes in those long however many days I hated you and sometimes I just adored you BUT WOW was I ever loving every minute of it and of you actually . . . really. So maybe I ought to say you are that kind of unconscious dream that I don't understand 'cause when I stop and think . . . ????
